

Killamarsh Infant and Nursery School

Race at our place

Thank you for your terrific support for our run last Friday. We are just waiting for the last few medals to arrive and we will hold our medal ceremony. They are coming any day now. I was so proud of all the children and what a sea of pink. It was obviously a charity very close to the hearts of so many of us and every child from the youngest Nursery child to the oldest Y2 child ran with enthusiasm.

We now need to collect the sponsor money. Our target is £500 and we are well on the way. If each child raises just £3.50 we will achieve our target. Let's do it together.

Many parents placed photographs of the children on Facebook. This is great but please be aware we have children in school who should not be photographed for legal reasons. When taking photographs in school please focus on your own child/ren or check with staff whether it is OK to take photographs of the whole class.

Holidays in term time

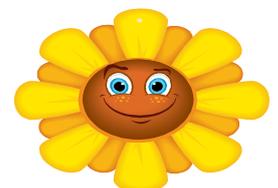

Please read the attached letter re the taking of holidays in term time. From September the school will not be able to authorise the taking of family holidays during term time. This is a change to the current situation. This is a government directive. All holidays taken will be unauthorized. Absence can be applied for in exceptional circumstances.

Things to look out for

A letter re tickets for the Y2 show will be sent out to every parent/carer. We will be giving two tickets per parent- one for the morning performance and one for the afternoon performance. Parents should swap between themselves if they wish to. The date of the performance is 11th July. The performances are at 9.30am and 1.30pm. Tickets cost 50p each.

Also we are advertising a clerical assistant post for 12 hours per week over five days. The advertisement is on the council website and will commence from September. Further details can be obtained from school and from the website. This is an open advertisement.

Sad news

I am sad to announce that Mrs. Wood will be retiring at the end of the year. I am not sure how we will manage when she retires but we have already got a promise that she will help when we need it. Many of you have known Mrs. Wood for many years and like us cannot imagine the school without her. In the next newsletter I will say goodbye properly but I wanted to let parents know in plenty of time.

The last day of term is Tuesday 23rd July. The date for Y1 and Y2 to return to school is Thursday 5th September. Reception and Nursery children will be informed of their starting dates within the next two weeks.

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find "filler" articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you're finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

Inside Story Headline

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the caption of the image near the image.

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

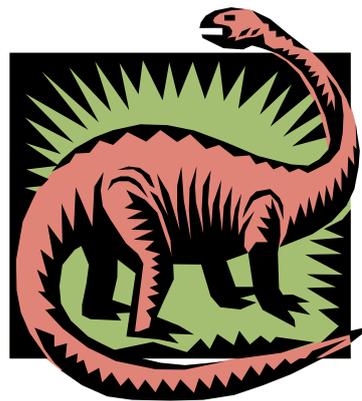

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.
