Children return

Thank you to those of you who attended our SAT's meeting for parents in Y2. The tests and tasks will take place during the last week of this half term. These standardised assessments are for teachers to use to ensure their own assessments are accurate. We report the teacher assessments only and so the level each child achieves is based on their work throughout KS1.

There will be a meeting for parents of Y1 children on 15th May at the beginning and end of the day to explain the phonic screening test carried out on every child in Y1 and also for children who did not achieve the standard required in Y2. This screening will take place during the week beginning 17th June. The scores are reported .

In the reception classes we also will be reporting each child's progress towards the Early Learning Goals. The format has been shared with parents. There is no testing, only observations and the practitioners knowledge of the children. These scores will form part of each child's report.

In Nursery each child's progress is monitored and feedback shared with parents regularly. This then provides the starting point for the learning journey through Reception.

Good communication with parents is vital and forming a partnership to develop each child's learning. Please ask for information and send information about what you have noticed your child is able to do.

Please do not panic about assessments. We are looking at progress as well as attainment and each child is an individual. We want each child to make good progress to achieve their full potential. Every child is a unique individual.

PACES Day

If the weather is fine on Friday 3rd please come and join us in our annual Parents And Children Exercising Simultaneously (PACES) event. It will begin at 9.00am when all classes will share their Wake and Shake sessions with parents. Remember to wear comfortable clothes and shoes and keep healthy with your child. You will feel so much better afterwards!

The children will be having an ACES day beforehand where all children exercise together. Please keep June 21st free in your diary when our children will be involved in a mini Race for Life in our grounds when we will be trying to raise money for this excellent cause. Hopefully we will be inviting parents and friends to join us. (We also need a fine day!)

PS- Did you know Y2 and Y2/1 have received a letter from Buckingham Palace? Look out for it on the website!

This story can fit 150-200 words.

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find "filler" articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you're finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

Inside Story Headline

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Back Page Story Headline

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

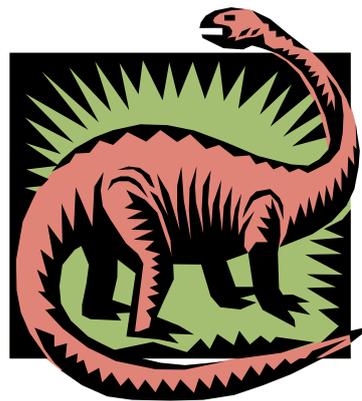

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.
