

Killamarsh Infant and Nursery School

Busy, busy times

It feels to have been one event after another since we came back in November. A Friday without being dressed up will be very welcome!

Thank you for your support. Each day has been great fun. I don't know if you have seen our blue tree yet but it is beautiful and will remind us about being friends with each other. The alternative name for anti-bullying week is friendship week and thank you for helping the children think about how to be a good friend.

The poppies are stunning and I know you have received a text to come and see them. A lot of hard work went into making each one. Kiera represented us really well at the remembrance ceremony in the village. The school is very proud of her. Thank you Kiera.

Thank you KS1

The children in KS1 did all of the advertising for our events including the flyer for Children in Need. They thought carefully about the information we needed to have to make each day successful. They gave us the correct information and having a purpose for writing is so important. Get your children to help plan the coming celebrations, making lists, writing cards, writing to Santa and don't forget the thank you letters and/or e-mails. (My son loved making shopping lists for food shopping, when he was very young he drew the things we needed.

1J

I am sad to say that we say goodbye to Mrs. Testa tomorrow as a full time teacher. She will be back on Monday but not in 1J. This is because I am pleased to announce that Miss Judson is returning to us. She is finally fit enough to return.

It will be very tough at this time of the year with all of the performances ahead but I know the children will be very excited to see her. They have been very lucky to have Mrs Testa who gave 110% every week- well beyond what she needed to do. Thank you from us all.

Parents Evening

Thank you for coming to parents evening. If you have not met with your child's class teacher please try to make an appointment as the two way dialogue is very important for your child's successful learning journey. Check home school diaries for targets.

Christmas is fast approaching and school will become very busy. Keep checking reading folders for information and also make sure you have sent back all the forms you need to for tickets etc.

If you can help with the school fayre please let us know as soon as possible.

Inside Story Headline

One benefit of using your newsletter as a promotional tool is that you can reuse content from other marketing materials, such as press releases, market studies, and reports.

While your main goal of distributing a newsletter might be to sell your product or service, the key to a successful newsletter is making it useful to your readers.

A great way to add useful content to your newsletter is to develop and write your own articles, or include a calendar of upcoming events or a special offer that promotes a new product.

You can also research articles or find "filler" articles by accessing the World Wide Web. You can write about a variety of topics but try to keep your articles short.

Much of the content you put in your newsletter can also be used for your Web site. Microsoft Publisher offers a simple way to convert your newsletter to a Web publication. So, when you're finished writing your newsletter, convert it to a Web site and post it.

Inside Story Headline

This story can fit 100-150 words.

The subject matter that appears in newsletters is virtually endless. You can include stories that focus on current technologies or innovations in your field.

You may also want to note business or economic trends, or make predictions for your customers or clients.

If the newsletter is distributed internally, you might comment upon new procedures or improvements to the business. Sales figures or earnings will show how your business is growing.

Some newsletters include a column that is updated every issue, for instance, an advice column, a book review, a letter from the president, or an editorial. You can also profile new employees or top customers or vendors.

Selecting pictures or graphics is an important part of adding content to your newsletter.

Think about your article and ask yourself if the picture supports or enhances the message you're trying to convey. Avoid selecting images that appear to be out of context.

Microsoft Publisher includes thousands of clip art images from which you can choose and import into your newsletter. There are also several tools you can use to draw shapes and symbols.

Once you have chosen an image, place it close to the article. Be sure to place the caption of the

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it's a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you've received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

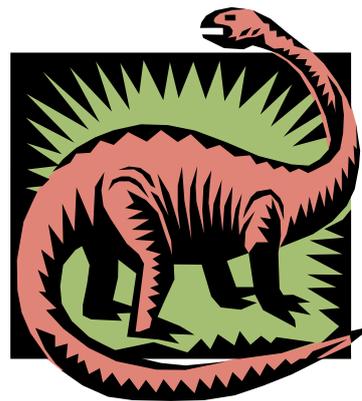

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you've created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.
